CAMPING OUT.

Burdette Discourses on the Beauties of the Wall Tent. Burdette in Brooklyn Engle.

My boy, when you go out a camping don't "rough it" too much. Don't go without tents. A camp without tents is like an orchard without apples. And don't move into a hotel cottage and call it 'camping." That is as much like camp ing as paying $1 a pound and fishing in a stocked fish pond is like trout fishing. Take a tent, the army wall tent is the most comfortable, and enjoy yourself. The guide book will tell you, as it told us, that a tent is unnecessary. That "the author and his friends have camped in the Adirondacks sleeping in the open air every night, for," I forget whether it was three months or three years, and inever felt a drop of rain. Well, maybe that is true. We caught five weeks of rain in the month of June, but that was an unusually rainy June. You had better take a tent. There may be some more rare Junes where this one came from.

But the great charm of the tent does not ng as paying $1 a pound and fishing in a rare Junes where this one came from.

But the great clarm of the tent does not lie in its utility, as an umbrella. It shows off to the best advantage on a windy night. That is why I recommend the wall tent rather than the "A" or wedge tent. We have both vanities in our camp, but when the winds are boisterous the wall tent has a few fancy steps that the "A" tent can never hope to imitate. Night has failen. On the other hand, the wind has gotten op. I retire to the cot that sags down like a water trough to receive me, and the circus begins. I am not afraid that the tent will blow over—it takes a terrific wind to capsize a well pinned, neatly adjusted tent. But I don't see why it cant stand still. I hear the wind waving among the trees. I look at the cot where the Prince is sleeping and half wish I hadn't brought him out into this land of furious storms. I lie down again, look at the swaying lantern and think I will get up and put it out. Suddenly the tent squats down like a collapsed balloon, and then before I can throw my arms over the Prince to keep the ridge pole from hitting him, the tent stands straight up three feet higher than its beat standing record. Another roaring tempest through the trees; the four sides of the tent buge out until it is as round as a Sibley tent; then it collapses and sucks in until there is hardly room incide for the lantern. Then three sides stiffen up like sheet iron, while the fourth flans itself mad for no particular reason. The But the great charm of the tent does not itself mad for no particular reason. The tent squats again, and when it stands up this time, the fly begins to flap and pound tent squats again, and when it stands up this time, the fly begins to flap and pound over your head, faster than you can think, with the roll of a mufiled drum, varied now and then by a crack like the shot of a gun. A moment's lull, suddenly the winds seem to be rending the forests, and both tent poles, fore and aft, are seized with the delerium tremens, and shiver and shake and tremble in oscillating spaems, while the walls dance up and down, flutter, bulge, collapse and stretch, and the frantic fly, "as fast as mill wheels strike," smits the top of the tent in furious, loud sounding whacks, that make the very lantern hurn blue with fear; the moaning of the wind in the woods rises to a shrisk; under the impression that the whole mountain is flowing away, I spring to my feet, rush to the tent door and tear to my feet, rush to the tent door and tear it open.

The bluest skies, the hrightest stars, the lovellest night in all this land greats me with the blessing of peace. The night wind is sighing softly in the gently swaying tree tops, a lullaby of the summer night, a liquid whisper, the very undertone of the zephyr, scarce so loud as the puriling mrimur of the dresmy little brook, crowing itself to sleep in the starlight. That is all.

But why should it sound like Bedlam inside the tent? That is what I want to know.

FACTS FOR FARMERS.

The number of cattle now in Texas, according to one estimate, is 5,000,000. One of the best uses for poultry manure at this season is to apply it to the cucumer vines.

Hardly anything is of more importance to the cultivator of the soil than the quality of the seed.

It costs 50 cents to grow a bushel of wheat in Michigan, 20 cents for oats, and 21 cents for corn. A Minnesota farmer believes that no fonder is equal to green amber-cane for producing butter.

Cows like cabbage leaves, but it is better to feed them just after milking, otherwise they may flavor the milk.

Milk being a complete food, it cannot be produced unless complete food is given the cow for that purpose.

Road-dust may be gathered easily now and stored for use in poultry houses, stables and outhouses in winter, where it will be worth much more than its cost.

To never let one acre of ground lie any longer than can possibly be helped without producing, and largely, too, is a good motto to adopt on the farm.
